Dear Mayors and Wardens:

This has been a tremendously difficult 18 months for Nova Scotia as it relates to extreme weather events. We've endured generational hurricanes, wildfires and floods that have had a devastating impact on our communities and the residents we serve.

Municipalities play a significant and key role in emergency preparedness, response and recovery. I want to acknowledge your leadership during these difficult events and thank you for your commitment to the response. We know that climate change is causing more frequent and severe weather events, and as governments, we share a responsibility to work in collaboration to protect our communities.

Historically, our emergency response has been very effective. But, with the increased intensity and frequency of events, we need to increase our capacity and strengthen our overall preparedness, response, and recovery.

That is why today, our government tabled legislation that will establish a new provincial Department of Emergency Management <https://news.novascotia.ca/en/2024/03/28/nova-scotia-guard-new-department-will-improve-emergency-readiness>.

Once established, it is the intention that this new Department will have a mandate to lead, direct and support a coordinated, whole-of-government response to emergencies and transition to a culture of preparedness across the province.

Within this new Department, we will work to strengthen our collaboration with communities and our partners across the province, like municipalities, so we are better prepared for the future.

We are also launching the Nova Scotian Guard, which will be a group of individuals and organizations from across the province who will help communities during and after emergencies. The Nova Scotia Guard will include volunteers with speciality skills (such as firefighters), as well as other members of the public to fill a variety of roles depending on the emergency needs.

Those interested in volunteering to help Nova Scotia be ready in the event of an emergency can let the Province know by completing the early registration form at: <https://ns.211.ca/early-registration-for-the-ns-volunteer-portal/>.

The legislation introduced today also requires the support of our municipal partners. In the months ahead, we look forward to working with you and speaking with you about regulations respecting the relationships between municipalities and regional emergency management offices; the provision of fire dispatch services through regional emergency management offices; the creation of vulnerable person registries and their implementation, as well as the development of a regional emergency alert system and the participation of municipalities in the system.

This direction is built on significant engagement with Nova Scotians over the past year and focuses on three key areas: communication, coordination and volunteer management.

Combined, these efforts will result in greater preparedness, impact and efficiency before, during and after any emergency.

Sincerely,

Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing
